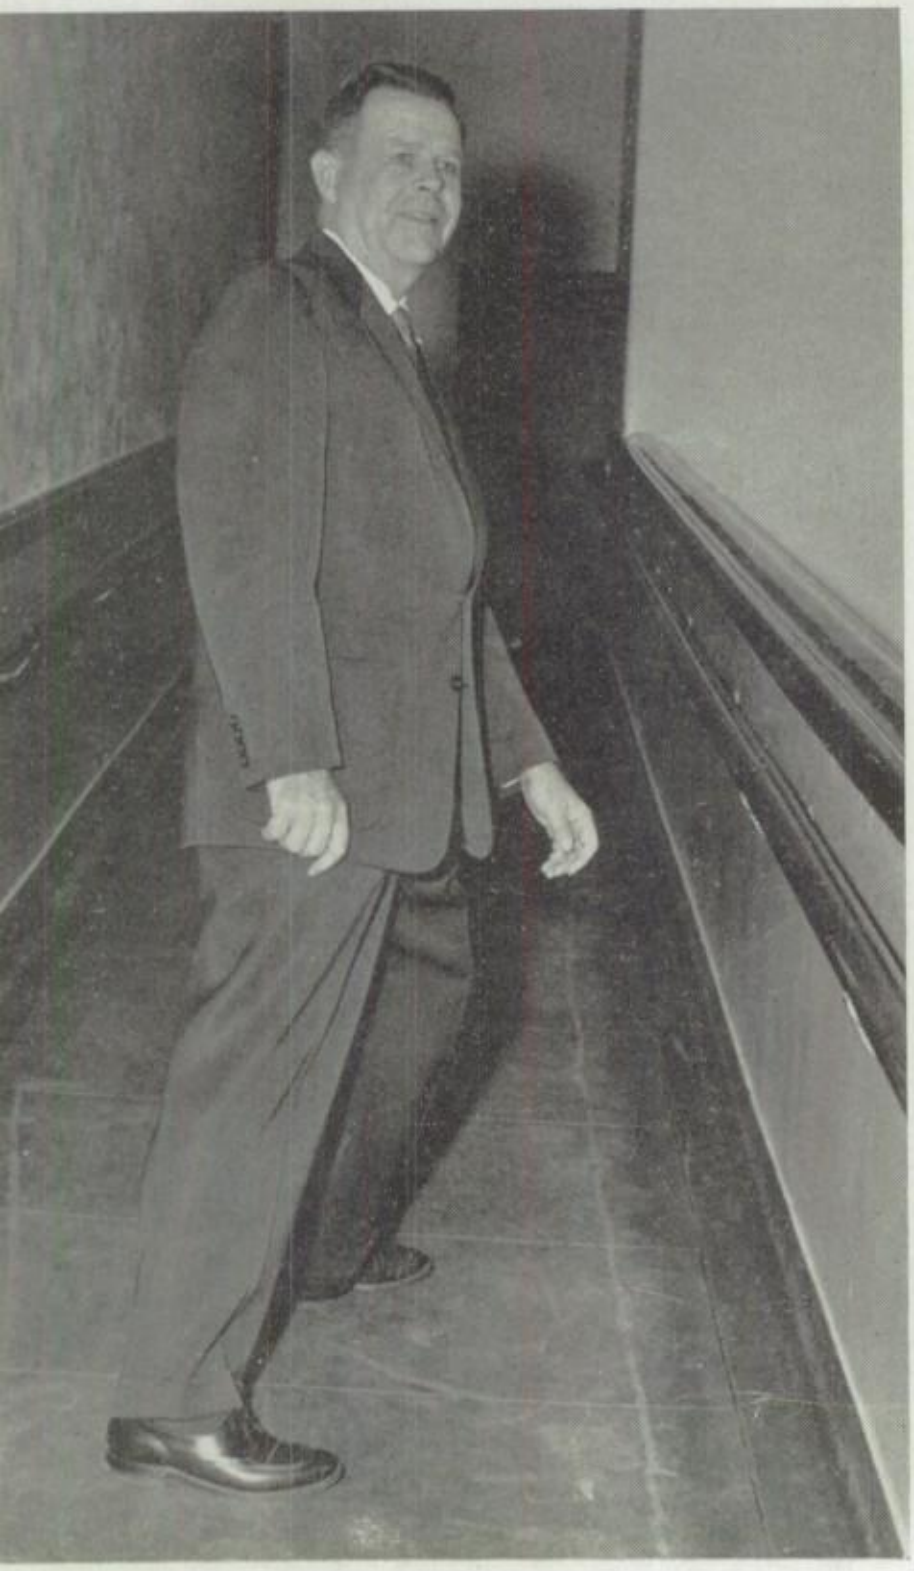
...he permanent staff!

MR. HAMBLET

MR. JOSEPH HAMBLET, PRINCIPAL, has the responsibility of administrating the policies set forth by the Board of Trustees, as well as taking action on the many problems and details which crowd the scholastic year. While fulfilling these duties skillfully he has offered his time, talent, and understanding to the faculty and students. The untiring work and leadership of Mr. Hamblet have been large factors in making Newport Harbor an outstanding school.



A High School closely resembles a steeplechase: The school is the race course, the subjects are the obstacles and the student is the rider, carried by his ability which represents the horse.

The determination of the rider to clear all of the obstacles and emerge as a winner in the race of life while others fall at the barriers exemplifies the struggle of all mankind to survive and prosper in the face of countless hazards.

JOSEPH HAMBLET
Principal

Management and direction of race course traffic

VICE-PRINCIPALS

Our friendly and understanding Vice-Principals are MRS. FAY HARBISON, MR. ROBERT MAGNUSSON, and MR. JOHN MCGOWEN. They give generously of themselves in trying to solve the intricacies of campus life. In addition to her regular duties as Dean of Girls, Mrs. Harbison (above right) is the advisor of Girls' League and spends much of her time helping senior students find scholarships. Her friendliness and sincerity deserve the appreciation of the entire student body. Mr. Robert Magnusson (center) is involved in boys' discipline, as well as the counseling of students and aiding Mr. Hamblet in many details of school administration. His enthusiasm and good nature have commanded the respect and admiration of the faculty and students. The cheerful voice of Mr. John McGowen (below right) is heard each day giving the fifth period announcements. His conscientious work in guiding students and handling administrative problems have gained him the position of vice-principal of the new Costa Mesa High School.

As administrative assistant MR. LES MILLER is concerned with the problems of budgeting and personnel management and selection. This year he has been especially busy with the many details involved in setting up his principalship of the new Costa Mesa High School which is opening in the fall. His ready smile and easy-going manner belie his meticulous efficiency and capacity for work accomplishment.

Student body officers . . .

CARL BERGERON

Carl Bergeron, while fulfilling his many duties as student body President aptly and efficiently, managed to participate as an outstanding member of the Varsity football and baseball teams. His ready enthusiasm was in open evidence in the Senior Play this year where his spectacular performance as the stork will long be remembered by those who witnessed it.

GLENDA PRICE

One of the most experienced student body officers is Vice-President Glenda Price. For three consecutive years she has been elected vice-president of her class. This year as a representative of her whole school, Glenda has proven that her qualities of friendliness and cooperation are a great help to the efforts of the student government.

GAIL WHITE

Secretary of the student body, Gail White, demonstrates her helpfulness and ability through her vigorous support of the various school organizations. Gail's exuberant personality leaves no cause to wonder that she is active in Band and Orchestra, G.A.A., and Tri-Sigma.

BOB BURNETT
Head of Student Court

One of the busiest persons seen about campus is Student Court head, Bob Burnett. While doing an excellent job in this capacity, Bob is vice-president of the Honor Society and a National Merit Scholar. This year, he narrated the Aqua Show and had a lead in the Senior Play. Bob belongs to numerous school clubs and has participated in the Lions Club speech contest. Bob hopes to attend Stanford University next year and then perhaps Harvard Law School.

RONNIE KEELER
Student Body Treasurer

Ron Keeler, Student Body Treasurer, is well known to his friends for his lively sense of humor. In addition to being one of the five National Merit Scholars from Harbor, Ron is moderator of the American Service Committee, has played basketball, and has been a member of the National Honor Society. Ron expects to attend the University of California at Berkeley next year.

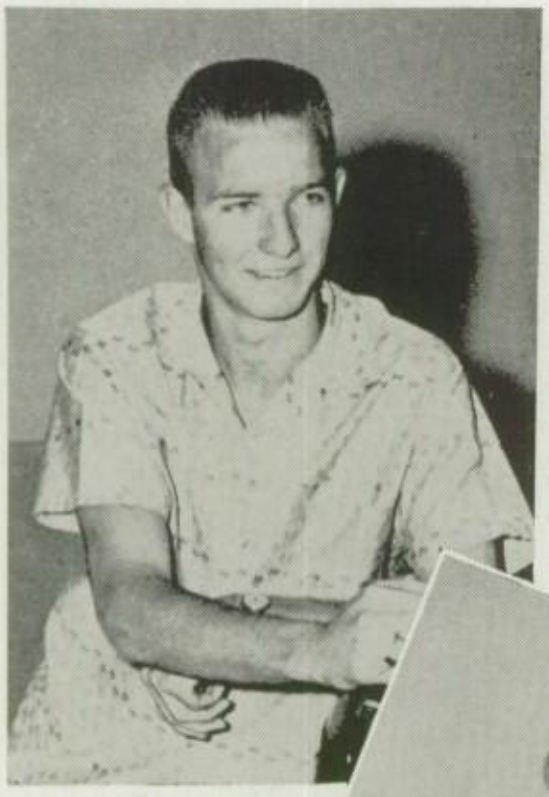
MARY COVAULT
Associate Judge of Student Court

As Associate Judge, Mary Covault directs the second lunch Student Court teams. Warm and friendly Mary had no trouble making new students feel at home on the campus. As Sophomore Class Secretary, she gained experience necessary for a good Student Body Officer. Besides maintaining a high scholastic average, Mary participates in many extra-curricular functions. Next year, she plans to go to the University of California at Santa Barbara.

PATTI WHITEFIELD
C.A.S.C. Representative

Patti Whitefield, Harbor High's representative to the California Association of Student Councils, represented the school at the model legislature held in Sacramento. Some of her other activities include Student Court, American Field Service, G.A.A., Honor Society, and Pep Commission. Next year Patti hopes to attend Stanford University.

Plotting the course for the chase . . .



As Seniors, we cross the finish of the long course through Harbor. In our eager determination to win, we have become skillful at overcoming the hurdles placed in our paths. Seniors are the veterans of the course — and know well the tortuous curves and refreshing straight-aways which are included in our school lives.

Steeped in tradition of academic and cultural training, these years, rich in human interest, present a colorful spectacle of brave riders contesting for their goals. At the end of this time-honored chase we find that our dauntless spirit has been rewarded with lasting friendships, the satisfaction brought by a job well done, and the equivalent of the Silver Cup — our Diploma. On Graduation Day we proudly stand — champions for the moment, yet mindful of the hazards of future courses yet to run.

ORGANIZATIONS . . . flags and colors

This year, at the half-way mark, the Student Council met as a newly organized body. Its purposes are to create more interest and experience in student government, and bring contact between students in every classroom. One person in every fifth-period class is elected as a representative and acts in this capacity for the year. The council meets once a month and makes recommendations to the Board of Control. Under the leadership of president Verne Stanford, the group has accomplished a great deal.

First lunch teams are directed by Judge Bob Burnett, and second lunch teams are headed by Associate Judge Mary Covault. Both teams hold court once a week, at which time the judge and his court settle any infraction of the rules fairly. Members give up half their lunch period every alternate week while on duty. Advisors are Mr. Newland and Mr. Goerke.

HONOR SOCIETY

The members of the National Honor Society are the favorites to win, the ones most adept at leaping the scholastic hurdles. Under the guidance of Mrs. Lewis, the group continues this year to advance the cause of scholarship. For its annual outing, the Honor Society enjoyed "The King and I" at the Philharmonic Auditorium. Having high qualifications for membership, the Honor Society offers an incentive for those students wishing to come out on top.

The American Field Service Committee is a student group which is interested in foreign relations and the promotion of friendship among countries. Round-table discussions are lead by chairman Ron Keeler and co-chairman Diane Lund. Students Beatrice Pieroni from Argentina, Klaus Schroeder from Germany, and Tomas Pintado from Spain were our exchange students this year. Soon A.F.S. hopes to bring over a foreign student with their own funds. With the help of advisors Mrs. Theresa Patterson and Mrs. Roscine Feeley, this group is dissolving the barriers of world misunderstanding.

Students having interest and ability in creative writing may have their literary efforts rewarded through publication in "Flotsam and Jetsam," the annual literary magazine. The staff, formed by creative writing students, reads thoroughly nearly one thousand submitted papers. The staff then re-reads the better ones, offering suggestions for further improvement where necessary. The final selection represent the finest literary efforts created by the students at Harbor. The high standards set up by the staff and advisors Mr. Arthur Wood and Mr. William Burns lead invariably to an excellent magazine.

Future teachers and navigators . . .

Planning for their futures in the teaching field are the members of Tau Rho Kappa. Two different interest groups are represented, those interested in elementary school teaching, and those interested in secondary school teaching. Discussion groups and field trips to various institutions give them insight into problems which will confront them in the profession. This group concerns itself not only with the ideals and goals of teaching, but the methods by which these are accomplished.

SANDRA MARTIN, Beacon Editor

Sandra Martin took on many great responsibilities as Editor of the Beacon. She has very capably carried out the duties of her position such as overseeing the work of the whole staff and giving them assignments, writing an editorial and a "Big Story" for each publication, composing headlines, and making many major decisions with the excellent advisorship of Mrs. Catherine Horn. In years past the Beacon has received many awards, and this year the staff surpassed the paper's fine reputation by winning the award at Redlands for the best all-round newspaper.

Putting out a good paper, setting high standards, and writing news which is accurate and timely is a job which the Beacon staff tackles with great enthusiasm. This year the Beacon was judged the Best All-Around Newspaper in competition with over one hundred schools and junior colleges of California and Arizona. They also won two sweepstakes awards in the field of Best Feature and Editorial Section and Best Sports Writing, and five first place ratings: best news section, best editorial and feature writing, best sports section, best lay-out and make-up and best typography and headlines.

Coming in by a nose

EDITOR: Editing a yearbook demands a vast amount of time and organization, a which Doug MacLachlan cheerfully met this year. Scheduling the production, divi and assigning tasks, and keeping work flowing to meet deadlines with the printer, his responsibilities. Doug did much research on his steeplechase theme to give scope authenticity to his idea. He wrote much of the copy and running heads which wind theme throughout the book.

ADVERTISING EDITOR: Advertising Editor, Gail Mann (lower left) and her working staff, by soliciting advertising to the merchants in the community, have ga practical experience in working with the public. Selling, and handling advertising counts give them more than a theoretical understanding of the world of business. The that are sold help to underwrite the cost of a yearbook, a non-profit production.

ART: Using the theme as an incentive to create a style and mood for the 1958 yearl was the monumental task handled for the third consecutive year by Leo Bestgen. cover and division pages attempt to intensify the action implied in the theme. Ric Griffin contributed the table of contents and spot illustrations throughout the book. tured below are Mrs. Shirley Rice, advisor, Leo Bestgen, and Richard Griffin.

ASSISTANT EDITOR: Someone who can do everything becomes an indispensable person to any organization. Molly McClintock, the Assistant Editor, planned page layouts, wrote copy, checked names, typed, traced "missing persons," and lent her much sought help wherever it was needed. Her year of experience should help her do an outstanding job as editor next year.

ADVISORS: Mr. Chester Wulff, Business Advisor, sponsored the advertising staff, worked out the budget, and tried to make the rising production costs meet the income, which is no little task. Mr. George Badger, Photography Advisor, scheduled groups for picture taking with Mr. Zimmer, the professional photographer. Making appointments with groups, setting the dates and locations for the photographs and keeping Mr. Zimmer on his toes was a man-sized job for Mr. Badger.

Mr. Lewis Palmer, Mrs. Shirley Rice, and Mr. William Clarke conferred at literary meetings sparked by afternoon tea. Culling the written copy, keying the style to the theme, and offering stimulating ideas to the writing group was their major task.

Through the capable hands of Ruth Studley (lower left) and Pat Bell (not pictured), passed most of the copy of the book that needed typing and identification. With more than twenty eight hundred students' names to be checked, Ruth never had a moment to spare in class. Terri Marshall (to Ruth's right) and Janet Jordon wrote most of the informative descriptions of the clubs and organizations.

Mary Ann Cooper and Robbie Griesser (far right) wrote the sports copy for the girls' and boys' sections. Summing up the years activities and helping to select outstanding participants among the girls was Mary Ann's job. Robbie identified the teams, gathered league record information and chronicled the years' outstanding individuals and sports events.

Early predictions for Newport's cage team this year were all but encouraging. Coach Gage and his basketballers, however, proved to the public that these predictions were quite unfounded. Harbor's quintet ended the season with a 16 won and 10 lost record, with an 8 won and 4 lost League record. Although there were no outstanding individuals this year, the squad as a whole performed with unmatched teamwork. John Fontius, Tim Jones, and Jerry Hulbert led the Sailors in total points.
